To whom it may concern.

I have been in the computer industry for forty years and I believe the turnaround in the Microsoft case is a gross injustice and will hurt the market for both hardware and software.

I believe that Microsoft lobbying just adds to the selling out of America to the highest bidder please reconsider.

There is a great amount of real anger among my associates leading to pledges not to buy another Microsoft product.

this anger could hurt an industry that is already scraping bottom.

Sincerely Jim Williamson
